Stars Make Me Wonder Where You Are

Norton Museum of Art Inspiration: Untitled by Joseph Cornell

This artwork is an exploration into my theme of loneliness. Most of this artwork is very cool as I used many values of blue to portray my theme of feeling lonely. The included magazine cut out represents making something exceeding out of something that was originally somewhat minor. I wanted this artwork to correlate to me personally, therefore, I decided to include my horoscope constellation, Leo. I additionally felt that my art piece was lacking the primary message in my theme, so I decided to include an Eskimo that appeared very sad and lonely, that I drew to scale and then cut out.
